'PARADISE' IN HANCOCK COUNTY?

An artist's rendering of the Paradise Bay resort complex envisioned by master developer Eric Nelson to be located on the beach in the new C-4 commercial resort district. ## Beware of fund soliciting for law officers

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus
Hancock County Chief
Criminal Investigator
Kenny Hurt, warns residents to be weary of persons collecting money to benefit law enforcement agencies.

"This past week someone was making telephone calls soliciting funds for the Narcotics Division. We, at the sheriff's office do not solicit funds like that, period," Hurt emphasized.

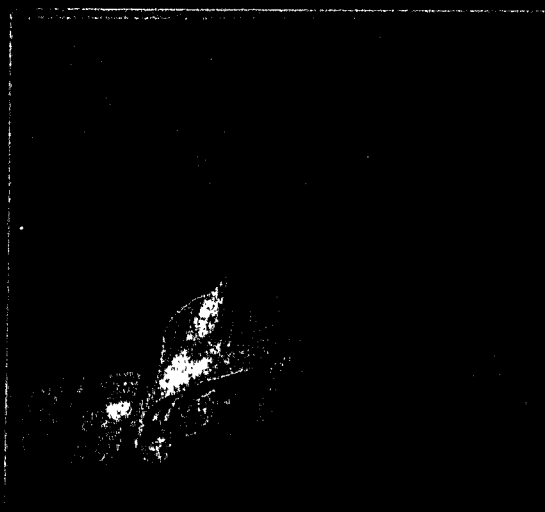

Hurt continued, "We were notified by a telephone company representative this was happening. We suggest that if you are approached by someone seeking money for police, narcotics, sheriff's officers, etc., before you give, to give a call to the law enforcement agency they say they are soliciting funds for."

"This is one of the oldest rackets around and residents need to be weary of anyone trying to solicit funds via telephone. True, there are some legitimate calls, but make sure it is legitimate before you open your pocket book," Hurt added.

Hurt reported that the sheriff's office had checked out the address they had received, but the house was vacant, as the suspects apparently already moved out to another area.

PA man drowns in MS Sound

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus
A Pennsylvania resident drowned in the Mississippi Sound near Bayou Caddy Sunday, when a boat he was in swamped in rough water, according to Hancock Sheriff Steve Garber and the Department of Marine Resources (DMR).

The drowning victim was listed as Freddie Estay, Jr., 32, whose body was recovered at approximately 2:45 p.m., May 1, at the west side of the Bayou Caddy Channel, according to a DMR press release.

The drowning victim was a passenger in a 14 ft. boat that swamped around 9:15 a.m. after a wave came over the bow of the craft filling it with water. A message was received from the boat owner's mother, reporting three adults and a child were in the boat who said her son called to report the boat sinking, and she in turn notified DMR, their report said.

DMR notified the Hancock County Sheriff's office and Deputy Harold Hirsch was dispatched to the area, Chief Investigator Kenny Hurt said.

DMR officers Lt. Rusty Pittman and MSgt. Mike Younce on their way to the accident scene received a call from a boater that recovered some items floating in the water in the vicinity of Bayou Caddy.

The two DMR officers arrived on the scene at 10:45 a.m. and spotted something orange in the marsh about half mile south of the bayou.

The report said DMR officers found James Ordoyne, 25, of Saucier, his wife Rose, 22, and their two-year-old daughter Ashlee, huddled in the marsh wearing life jackets. The couple informed officers that their cousin who was not wearing a life jacket had drifted away and they feared he had drowned.

DMR officers Jimmy Hester and Steve Kelly met Pittman and Younce and then American Medical Response, who took the three survivors to Hancock Medical Center where they were treated for hypothermia.

The report said the Coast Guard recovered the body of Estay at the east side of Bayou Caddy Channel, within a half mile from where the survivors were rescued. The victim's body was transported to the mouth of Bayou Caddy and released to Hancock County Medical Examiner Norma Stiglet.

The survivors were interviewed by Hancock County Investigator Tom Roan at Hancock Medical Center. The parents were released Sunday and the daughter on Monday.

Reports said the four survivors were camping on Wolf River and where on their way to Bayou Caddy to pick-up a sleeping bag when the boat started taking in water.

DMR reported winds were 15 to 25 miles per hour and seas were ruff Sunday with three to five foot waves.

Police attending narcotics class find suspects with meth

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus
Three area residents were arrested for possession of a controlled substance, (crystal methamphetamine), at a local motel, according to Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force directors Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell and Bay St. Louis Police Chief Frank McNeil.

Tara B. Smith, 22, Apuawai Place, Diamondhead, Stephen Paul Danielson, 22, Hickory Street, Pass Christian, and Samuel Craft, 23, Magnolia Street, Pass Christian, were arrested and charged with possession of a controlled substance, (crystal meth), according to McNeil and Varnell's report.

All three were still lodged in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility Wednesday morning, according to jail records.

Danielson and Craft are being held in lieu of $5,500 each bonds, while Smith is being held without bond, as he was on probation by the Mississippi Department of Corrections, according to Varnell and McNeil.

Bay-Waveland Task Force Agents were notified by off-duty narcotics investigators attending a Narcotics Investigation Class at a Bay St. Louis motel that they observed a suspect entering a hotel room with a large propane torch and of suspected suspicious activity.

The investigators then detected a chemical odor coming from the same room.

Bay-Wave Agents then approached and spoke to the occupants of the room. Agents were able to observed drug paraphernalia in plain view and secured the room, according to the press release.

McNeil and Varnell continued, "Agents discovered crystal meth and a vast assortment of paraphernalia inside the too. The suspects were apparently using the propane torches to smoke the methamphetamine."

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

When it rains here, it pours

If something is done over the years, there is always the chance of the event being soaked by rain.

It was ironic that the annual Hancock County XTREME WEATHER Fair was held Saturday at the Stennis Airpark. Saturday was a day when severe thunderstorms rolled through the area.

Yet, several of the Christmas in April groups went about their chores for some deserving residents. Others, I understand are to be rescheduled.

I was to take some photos for Basil Kennedy, but it seemed every time I would get ready to go, rain would come down harder.

By the way, I have been told our rainfall on the coastal area for April is usually a bit over four inches and some places recorded over 14 inches this past April.

As I have written about many times, we can comment, complain, and whatever, but, we cannot do anything about the weather.

Even the cool mornings at this time of year is unusual for us.

Looks like I put away my winter shirts, and a few days later I have to pull them out of the closet.

I guess my Hawaiian shirts are getting an extra rest this season.

It is great to hear that Mississippi Polymer Technologies, Inc.

(MPT), has received a $7.5 million contract under Title III of the U.S. Defense Production Act.

As many of you know, MPT is located at Hancock County's Port Bienville Industrial Park and is a leading developer of Polymer products.

I can remember not too many years ago when Robert R. Gagne, Ph.D. opened his company at Port Bienville and began with just a few employees.

This special government contract will support an increase in the production capacity of MPT's Paramax Self-Reinforced Polymer (SRP) materials for both military and commercial applications.

It is good to see MPT continued growth in our county and the job opportunities being offered by its increase in contracts.

By the way, many of the employees at PMT are graduates of the University of Southern Mississippi's Polymer division.

The $7.5 million contract will directly support growth of MPT's core Paramax SRP business for both Defense and civilian uses.

Paramax SRPs are being used for a wide variety of developing applications, as molded stock shapes, structural foams, films, and coatings, for medical, aerospace, defense, electronic, automotive and specialty industrial uses.

Barbour's gambling with our money

In their zeal to avoid any hint of a tax increase, Gov. Barbour and his Senate allies evidently are willing to gamble on the state's economy generating enough revenue through existing taxes in the next fiscal year to fund their version of a state budget.

But based on definite signs that both the nation's economy, and Mississippi's as well, are on a downward slope, with no drastic turnaround in sight, Barbour's game of financing our vital state services becomes more risky.

That's because tax collections in Mississippi are closely geared to the condition of the economy.

A one-month spurt of state tax collections in April—the month state income tax payments roll in—gave what could be a false picture of revenues in the months ahead as gas pump prices put a big dent in taxpayers' disposable income.

Last week, the Department of Commerce reported that the U.S. economy, plagued with soaring energy costs, dropped in the first quarter of 2005 to its lowest point in two years. That's a bad omen for the rest of the year.

Meanwhile, in Mississippi, unemployment has continued for several months to stick at 7 percent, another downer for hopes of a stronger state economy.

So the point must be made that the Barbour crowd's dream that the state economy is going to bail out the state budget is playing Russian roulette with the welfare of Mississippi school children and health care for elderly poor.

Right now, Mississippi government is incredibly in limbo as state lawmakers, who went home in early April without agreeing on how and how much to fund the budget, wait for the governor to call them back into a special session where he gets to set the agenda.

As of last week, Barbour had not revealed any details, but there's every indication his budget strategy will entail draconian cuts in Mississippi's Adequate Education Program (MAEP) in order to get more money for his favorites: the Highway Patrol and Corrections.

There are no prospects Mississippi could see anything like the gaming industry bonanza of the early 1990s that could jumpstart our economy.

So why the optimism in the Barbour camp that a robust economy will pull their chestnuts out of the fire to get the state over its 2006 budgetary hump without putting some kind of new tax revenues into the revenue stream?

Adding to gloom of many economists at the national level is the mention for the first time in 30 years by

JUST LIKE KUDZU, IT KEEPS ON GROWING!

Protect your pet, obey the leash law

Dear Editor,
I think at times, our townspeople need to be reminded that we have a leash law in Bay St. Louis. The leash law is in effect for numerous reasons. The most obvious reason to me after this past Saturday night is not only the safety of a dog, but the heartache suffered by both the owners and the person who hits and kills a neighbor's beloved pet.

For the last couple of years, if you traveled down my road, you might happen upon an adorable Boston Terrier that loved to chase any automobile that happened to come down the road. He loved to chase beside automobiles and to numerously crisscross in front of and around them.

I can't tell you the number of times that we have had to come to almost a complete stop just to figure out just where this dog was so that we wouldn't hit him.

As we live off of Dunbar Avenue, the dog has followed us out onto this extremely busy street too. Numerous times, I've come home and mentioned to family members that if the owners didn't put a leash on this dog, it was going to wind up getting hit and possibly killed.

This past Saturday night, just after 11 p.m., my 18 year-old son hit and killed him on our road. After hitting the dog, my son drove his Dad's half-ton Super-Cab, long wheel base pickup back home and then ran back down the road to where the dog was laying in the road. My son knew as he bent down to the dog, that he was already gone.

While walking on our road in the past, my son has had numerous times that he came in contact with the dog and knew that it was a sweetheart. He was extremely upset when he came into our house on Saturday night. As the owners of 2 dogs and 3 cats, we knew that we could not just leave it in the road. After trying to console my son to no avail, I put on my robe and slippers and then my son and I drove down to the neighbors house to wake them up with the sad news that my son had hit and killed their dog.

If I could erase what happened on Saturday night, believe me I would.

Not only did a family lose a sweet little dog, but the unhappy memory and sensation of hitting a dog will be long remembered by my son.

Please everyone, for the love of your beloved furbaby and the heartache of the person who might hit your beloved furbaby, please if you don't have a fenced in yard, please, please, please put your dog on a leash, if not for the leash law, then do it for your pet's safety.

Sincerely,

Resort -- new zoning plan

area. District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward voted against passage of the ordinance. Coward said she was not opposed to condominium projects, but that she felt the ordinance had not received the kind of consideration it needed.

It is a good ordinance, but needs work, Coward said, and it would be prudent to hold up on approval until that work is done. Coward's remarks met with applause from the packed board room where both local residents and developers turned out to speak on the issue.

A citizen's group, the Coastal Community Watch, presented several questions to supervisors regarding rising taxes and insurance, such as who would pay for infrastructure costs, and other concerns should the ordinance become a reality.

Tax assessor Jimmie Ladner said that rising property taxes could become a reality because Mississippi State law allows taxes in the state to be purely market driven, with little or no protection for property owners. The market determines the value of property, which in turn determines the property values. There is a possibility that development could raise property taxes too high for many to afford, he said.

The group also questioned whether damage to the tall structures in a hurricane could raise insurance rates for everyone in the county.

District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman said new technology would make the buildings less vulnerable to storms, unlike their unfortunate counterparts recently devastated in Florida. Building official Mickey Lagasse said that although there are no building codes in the county, commercial projects in the district will be built to code. Insurance rates are governed by the state, said Pullman.

Board attorney Ronnie Artigues advised supervisors to add a stipulation to the ordinance that would require developers to work with the county on impact of infrastructure such as traffic flow or utility services, however the exact nature of such an agreement was not discussed before the ordinance was approved. At present, most of the district has no access to water or wastewater services. The city of Waveland has received a request for natural gas service to the Silver Slipper Casino project.

Most of those opposed to the new district said their main concern was that large development would destroy the appeal that the county now has as a quiet, small-town destination.

"What we all love will be squashed out," said Waveland resident Paul Laviolette, of Waveland. "A two-lane country road that you govern -- it will become a thoroughfare."

"It is time to say that the king doesn't matter," said Sandy Johnson speaking of the big money she said was driving the change. "It is time to say this is our life and here we are going to do things differently."

The group called for a referendum on the issue.

Developer Eric Nelson said he had plans for public walkways, parks, public rest rooms, public beach front parking and preservation of oak trees throughout the resort district. He suggested that Sand Bayou be the cut-off for development to separate the district from nearby residential areas.

On Wednesday Nelson said he wanted to work closely with the residents of Clermont Harbor. "The plan will work only if it is good for everybody," What Nelson calls his master plan, is still in the preliminary stages, and it is unlikely that any construction will take place for at least two years, and then, only if all the details can be ironed out, he said. "I'm about long term, otherwise it is just another real estate investment."

Russell Elliot said his grandfather bought land in the county a hundred years ago. "I remember the county before Casino Magic," Elliot said. "And much of it was going downhill ... the casino affected nothing and helped upgrade the county. We are talking about an end-of-the-road place where there is nothing else and it won't change the personality of Bay St. Louis or Waveland." But many still did not agree.

"We're a rare bird, the last of our kind. We have what everyone else on the Gulf of Mexico has given away," said a pamphlet handed out by the Community Watch. "A slow two-lane road by a quiet beach, historic houses, quaint towns, and shrimp boats in back yards. We can preserve our way of life and attract tourists if we only realize our best assets instead of being tempted to imitate our neighbors."

Primary -- Reed wins

The winner of the primary must have 51 percent of the vote, or a run-off election will be held on May 17.

Dixie Boyd, chairman of the municipal executive committee, said that Reed had over 51 percent of the vote, based on numbers collected at the poll.

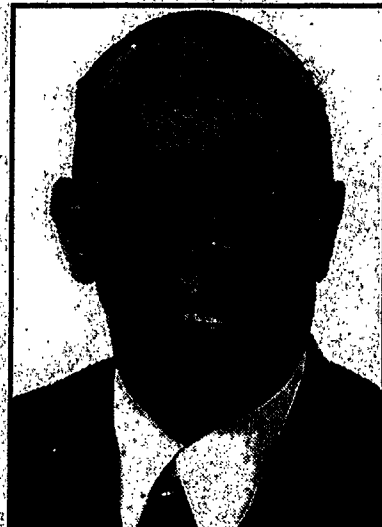

As of Wednesday afternoon, however, about twenty affidavit votes had not yet been counted. While they could not secure a win for another candidate, they could force a run-off if enough votes went to Reed's opponents.

None of the candidates returned phone calls Wednesday afternoon.

2 incumbents win in Pass Christian primary elections

BY JOHN WATERMAN
Staff Writer

Two incumbents reclaimed their seats on the Pass Christian Board of Aldermen in the May 3 primary election.

All of the candidates will face no opposition in June's general election.

Anthony Hall, of Ward 3, received 164 votes, while Philip Piernas received 77. Hall had been elected last May in special election held to fill an empty seat left behind by former alderman Michael Antoine.

"Citizens judge us as public servants by their character and by their thoroughness," Hall said. "Over the last year, I have demonstrated those things."

Hall said he looked forward continuing his job, and hoped to see more growth in the city in business and revenue.

Lou Rizzardi and H.

Walton Piggot ran against each other for a seat left by former alderman Howard McKissick, who stepped down earlier this year to take a job with the Department of Environmental Quality.

Rizzardi won with 185 votes.

"I'm quite pleased with the total turnout for voters. The big issue was condos, and that seemed to work out pretty well. Most voters seemed to agree with me on (establishing) a 50-foot height restriction."

Since Rizzardi won a seat that had already been vacated, he said it was possible that the board of aldermen will appoint him even before general election.

Joe Piernas of Ward 2 won with 137 votes to Regina Daly's 97.

Piernas could not be reached for comment.

Relay For Life

A Team Event to Fight Cancer

Hancock County Relay for Life Schedule of Events Hancock County Walking Track May 6, 2005

Relay for Life is the American Cancer Society's national signature event where participants walk, run, stroll, and shuffle around a track during the community event. The festivities of the overnight event celebrate survivorship, raise money and raise awareness in the fight against cancer.

The dollars raised at Relay For Life will allow the American Cancer Society to continue funding cancer research, develop new prevention and detection programs and continue providing its expansive patient support programs.

The Following Educational Programs & Services Are Offered in South Mississippi:

Tell A Friend - A program designed to encourage women age 40 or older to have annual mammograms.

Local Tobacco Advocacy - The American Cancer Society continues its work to strengthen and enforce tobacco ordinances.

Reach To Recovery - This is a volunteer visitation program that matches breast cancer survivors with anyone who has concerns about breast cancer. Whether the person has been diagnosed with breast cancer, undergoing surgery or found a suspicious lump, a Reach To Recovery volunteer listens to the person's concerns, recommends resources and offers emotional support.

Look Good Feel Better - This program is designed to help women, undergoing cancer treatment, learn to cope with the appearance-related side effects of treatment. It is designed to help them regain a sense of self-confidence and control over their lives.

"Relay For Life is not just about raising money, it's about raising awareness and bringing attention to this horrible disease," said Kerry Clark from the American Cancer Society. "Many of the participants are cancer survivors themselves and they are living proof of the strides we have made in the fight against cancer."

The Following Patient Support Programs Are Offered in South Mississippi:

National Cancer Information Center: Callers from Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone Counties can reach a trained Cancer Information Specialist 24-Hours a Day, 7-Days a week, 365 Days a year through the American Cancer Society's toll-free Cancer Information Line: 1-800-ACS-2345.

Support Groups: These groups help patients and their family members with the physical and emotional stress of coping with a cancer diagnosis and treatment.

I Can Cope: Facing cancer can be one of the most significant challenges a person encounters. I Can Cope helps people meet this challenge by clarifying facts and myths through a series of educational classes.

"Unique You" Boutique: The American Cancer Society offers, free of charge, a selection of wigs, hats, scarves, breast prosthesis and bras to cancer patients in the Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone Counties.

Hope Lodge: It's tough enough to fight cancer without fighting a financial battle as well. Thanks to the American Cancer Society's Hope Lodge in New Orleans, a solution is on the way. Hope Lodge will offer a temporary home, as well as a supportive environment to patients and their families receiving cancer treatment in the New Orleans area.

Giant, 91 foot wave recorded in Gulf by NRL

The largest wave ever to be recorded in the Gulf of Mexico was measured, as Hurricane Ivan passed over a Naval Research Laboratory (NRL) instrument array.

The 91 ft. wave was measured with instruments placed on the continental shelf for the Slope to Shelf Energetics and Exchange Dynamics (SEED) field experiment. The instrument array, consisting of six current profiler moorings with wave/tide gauges, was deployed at water depths ranging from 60 and 90 meters just west of the DeSoto Canyon, about 100 miles south of Gulfport. Sometime between 8 p.m. CDT and midnight on September 15, 2004, the eye of Ivan passed through the center of the array and directly over four of the six instruments.

Bill Teague, a physical oceanographer in NRL's Ocean Sciences Branch, said that most instruments in the ocean do not even survive near misses of such powerful storms, much less direct hits. "Fortunately all of the SEED moorings survived and provided the best ocean measurements of currents and waves ever obtained directly under a major hurricane," said Teague.

During the approach of Ivan, a moored buoy deployed by the National Data Buoy Center (NDBC) near the west side of the SEED array, registered a significant wave height of 53 ft. Unfortunately the buoy broke loose and was set adrift at 5 p.m. on Sept. 15, just prior to the arrival of the main force of the hurricane. According to NDBC, this height appears to be the largest ever reported by NDBC from a hurricane and comes within a few tenths of a meter of NDBC's all-time record, reported in the North Pacific.

At array mooring number 3, located under the most intense winds, the maximum measured wave height of 91 ft. (higher than an 8 story building) was part of a group of large waves, where several waves reached heights of about 66 ft. "These waves recorded by the NRL SEED gauges are by far the largest waves ever directly measured," said David Wang, also an oceanographer at NRL.

But he assured, said Teague, that waves of this magnitude "would never make it to the shorelines along the Gulf of Mexico. Large waves in deep water tend to break, lose energy, and become smaller as they enter shallower water approaching the coast; if they even make it that far," said Teague.

Eye of the storm

The eye of Hurricane Ivan is clearly shown just southeast of the Gulf of Mexico. NRL SEED moorings (blue dots 1-14) were deployed on the Mississippi/Alabama shelf and slope in May 2004, and were serviced in November. All of the moorings contained acoustic Doppler current profilers while moorings 1-6 additionally contained wave/tide gauges.

MPT receives $7.5 million contract

Mississippi Polymer Technologies, Inc. (MPT), a high performance materials company, announced that it has received a $7.5 million contract under Title III of the U.S. Defense Production Act. The contract will support an increase in the production capacity of MPT's Parmax Self-Reinforced Polymer (SRP) materials for both military and commercial applications.

Title III of the Defense Production Act supports the development of domestic production sources for materials considered to be important for defense. MPT already has demonstrated the utility of Parmax SRP materials for a wide variety of weapons systems, aircraft, and naval vessel applications. As a result, the U.S. Department of Defense is continuing to assist MPT in developing facilities for producing Parmax SRP resins. Title III funds will directly support growth of MPT's core Parmax SRP business for both defense and civilian uses. MPT's President, Dr. John Flock, said: "This continued support from the Department of Defense is critical to our company during the coming year as MPT takes Parmax SRP products into the marketplace and accelerates the commercial phase of our business development."

Parmax SRPs are revolutionary new plastic materials that can replace metals and composites without added fiber reinforcement. Parmax SRPs exhibit extraordinary mechanical properties, fire resistance, corrosion and scratch resistance, hardness, and cryogenic properties, yet can be fabricated and machined using conventional automated methods. MPT soon will start selling a new Parmax SRP material that can be injection molded, a notable addition to MPT's current products designed for compression molding and extrusion. Parmax SRPs are being used for a wide variety of developing applications, as molded stock shapes, structural foams, films, and coatings, for medical, aerospace, defense, electronic, automotive and specialty industrial use. MPT is developing strategic collaborations with other companies to commercialize high value-added Parmax SRP products.

Pearl River receives federal grant for science programs

Mississippi Sen. Trent Lott (R-Miss.) has presented a $390,000 grant from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Earth Sciences Fund to Pearl River Community College and Jones County Junior College this week.

The money, $195,000 to each school, will be used to develop Spatial Technologies training programs in their respective districts. It will allow both schools to conduct training for users of Geographic Information Systems, Global Positioning Systems and Remote Sensing technologies.

Training in these technologies benefit a wide range of users, to include businesses and industries, municipal and other government agencies, utility companies, military, marine, law enforcement and educational entities.

"Investment in our state's university and community college system is an important part of our continuing efforts to foster better education and attract more jobs to our state," Senator Lott said. "I was pleased to help obtain this federal funding through the Congressional budgetary process, and I look forward to seeing this program enhance both Pearl River Community College and Jones County Junior College."

Ed Felsner, Director of the Lowery Woodall Advanced Technology Center, said one of the purposes of the grant will be to provide the center with the capability to plan and deliver Remote Sensing, GIS and GPS technology training in South Mississippi.

Two charged for crystal meth

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS Publisher Emeritus

The Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force arrested two suspects for possession of a controlled substance, (crystal methamphetamine) on April 25, according to directors Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell and Bay Police Chief Frank McNeil. "Clay Joseph Shaw, 23, Shaw Town Road, Perkinston, and Jason Raymond McQueen, 23, Alakoko Place, Diamondhead were arrested and charged with possession of a controlled substance, (crystal meth), and also possession of precursor materials with intent to manufacture methamphetamine," McNeil and Varnell said in a news release.

Both were transported to the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility with Shaw's bond being set at $21,100, while McQueen's was placed on a $10,000 bond.

The report said, "Shaw and McQueen were seen purchasing precursor materials at a local retail store, agents then initiated a traffic stop with the suspects as they left the parking lot. Shaw attempted to throw plastic bags out of the vehicle's window but was quickly stopped by responding officers. Agents discovered crystal meth in the plastic bags as well as a large amount of precursor materials inside the vehicle."

The report said the precursor materials was, numerous bags of dry ice, coffee filters, batteries, plastic containers and plastic tubing. Agents also seized $588 in cash that Shaw was in possession of.

Detective Ian Estorfee is in charge of the investigation and Shaw and McQueen have a preliminary court appearance of May 19 in Waveland Municipal Court.

'Lights of love' brighten the night during Relay for Life

THE SEA COAST ECHO

During this year's American Cancer Society Relay For Life, participants will have the chance to remember loved ones and honor those battling cancer with a special luminaria ceremony. This ceremony will be held at the Hancock County Walking Track on May 6 at 6 p.m. Each luminaria represents the love that families and friends have for a survivor who has won the battle against cancer or for the memory of someone who lost the fight.

Hundreds of these beacons of hope will illuminate the walking track during this moving ceremony.

The American Cancer Society's Relay For Life began in 1985 and remains a celebration of survivorship and remembrance that raises funds for and awareness of the fight against cancer. The Relay's luminaria ceremony symbolizes the hope and courage with which we continue to work toward a cure for this deadly disease. After sunset at each of the more than 4,200 Relay For Life events nationwide, luminaria decorated with the names of those who have battled cancer are lit and left glowing throughout the night to remind everyone of the incredible importance of their contributions.

Luminaria can be ordered for a minimum donation of $10 before the event by calling 896-8936. Luminaria can also be purchased at the event.

Leonardo da Vinci Festival planned at Episcopal school

THE SEA COAST ECHO

On May 6, in cooperation with Stennis Space Center, Coast Episcopal School will be celebrating the life of Leonardo da Vinci and his contributions in the areas of science, engineering, art, music, and architecture. The school will visit by Leonardo himself in the person of Glenn Vanderbeek, a Stennis educator.

The day will begin with chapel, followed by the ever popular bridge-strength test. This is the culmination of a project in 6th grade science with Mrs. Plant. Students have designed truss bridges in balsa wood. Weight will be applied to the breaking point to test which bridge is strongest. The rest of the school will cheer them on as increasingly heavy weights are applied.

Students will be assigned by Mrs. Betz (in advance) to multi-age teams designated by original Leonardo tees in different team colors. Teams will rotate through a variety of science-based activities in 20 minute segments. Ultraviolet detecting beads, pin-hole cameras and paper rockets will be featured. Parent volunteers will assist the Stennis crew at the activity stations. There will also be some CES Day games to round out the program.

Students have been collecting boxes of all sizes for a month. In the gym, student teams will have the opportunity to build temporary structures out of these boxes and then knock them down for the next group. Students with Lego-building abilities will feature their original Lego block designs, in a mini-city occupying the bleachers. City planning projects by K-7 art students will also be hanging on the walls throughout the school.

After a lunch of pizza and the cutting of Leonardo's belated birthday cake (April 15, 1542 is his actual birth day), they will gather in the air-conditioned chapel to cool off and celebrate the talents of student performers in a talent show coordinated by Mrs. Spradley. Leonardo is said to have had a fine singing voice and was quite graceful in his dancing. The goal in celebrating Leonardo's many gifts is to also draw attention to the many talents and interests expressed within the school family.

1985 Cochran taps Gex for judge's position

TEN YEARS AGO

April 16, 1995 - Highway Commissioner Ronnie Shows announced Thursday that a $951,112 grant has been awarded to Hancock County, Waveland and Bay St. Louis by the Mississippi Department of Transportation. The grant is for the construction of the Hancock County Sand Beach Pathway and Urban Bikeway System which will link Bay St. Louis and Waveland. The grant will reimburse the cities and county for the 80 percent cost of the $1,265,542 project.

Engineer William Mitchell said Thursday that damage to the beach from a recent powerful storm indicate some costly drainage problems that the county will have to face. The storm dropped some six inches of rain in four hours, causing major washouts at three locations on the recently renourished beach. In one area South of Washington Street pier, erosion was blamed on a blocked box culvert — a problem Mitchell said would be relatively easy to resolve. Two other erosion areas, he said pose a bigger problem: inadequate box culverts that should be enlarged.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

April 25, 1985 - Senator Thad Cochran has recommended Walter J. Gex, III of Diamondhead to be nominated for a federal court judge in Mississippi's Southern District. According to Cochran's letter asking that President Ronald Reagan nominate Gex for the post, Gex was selected because he is "an experienced practicing attorney who has excellent judgment, intelligence and a strong sense of fairness." "I think Walter Gex will be an outstanding judge. He will bring good common sense to the position," Cochran's letter stated.

A controversy surrounding political signs continued this week as Bay St. Louis Police Chief Murray Ladner was confronted by persons claiming that on-duty police officers has been putting up political signs. Ladner stated that was absolutely untrue and that no on-duty police officer has put up any campaign signs. "I want the public to know that this police department is not involved in politics on any level," he said. Ladner added that when members of the department were off duty, they had the right to assist the candidate of their choice, but while on duty no officer would be campaigning. Mayor Larry Bennett advised us to stay out of politics when we are on duty.

Crowning Glory

The Blessed Virgin Mary will be honored Friday in a special Crowning Ceremony at Our Lady of the Gulf Church. The ceremony has not taken place in Hancock County since the 1960s. The below photo, courtesy of Sister Jane, is believed to be ca. 1949. It depicts the procession, including Sister Raphael who was principal of St. Joseph's Academy in the 50's.

OLG to host May Crowning

BY BENNIE
SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

On Friday, May 6, at 6:30 p.m., Our Lady of the Gulf Church in Bay St. Louis will hold a May Crowning. The event will begin at Our Lady of the Woods Shrine. It will be the first such celebration at the church since the 1960's. May is by tradition the month dedicated to and named for the Blessed Virgin Mary. The month symbolizes new life.

May crowning became popular in the United States prior to Vatican II and continues in many parishes today. In parishes, at Marian shrines, and at grottos someone is chosen to place a wreath on Mary's head. The practice originated in Italy in 1784.

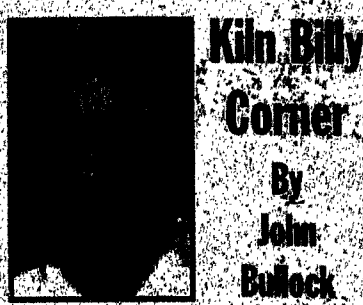

In many parishes everyone is invited to participate.

Controversy and ignorance collide in Redneck Reality

Good Morning South Mississippi and welcome once again to "Kiln Billy Corner," where controversy and ignorance are certain to collide and the exposure of Redneck Reality will stimulate that secret portion of demented personality that we all possess. Eventually some of you may even find yourself in the crossfire of love and hate as you attempt to decipher the disposition of my personality.

While we're on the topic of personality, ain't it a shame that we spend so many countless hours in front of that idiot box,

Kiln Billy Corner
By John
Bullock

AKA television. For the most part, this addictive form of electronic entertainment has become a hypnotic method of deceptive influence that's governed by our political friends at the Federal Communication Commission, or FCC and is highly accountable for most of societies current problems. Go figure. With this in mind, you'd think as smart as most folks like to think that we are, we'd see through this collection of rubbish and find more time to enjoy some natural stimulation instead. Like having a cold beer with your neighbor and comparing the depths of your intelligence, or if that's not an option, the horsepower rating of your lawn tractor. Either way shut the damn idiot box off, get up and rediscover your imagination and find the time to experience some quality time.

You'll be glad you did. For those of you who require a deeper explanation of quality time — and by the way, the entire family watching TV together ain't it, either — imagine this: Quality time is simply the enjoyment of any activity or event that is not considered routine, while respectively comprehending the development of new thoughts and ideas that are shared between you and someone you enjoy being with. Got it? Let's move on.

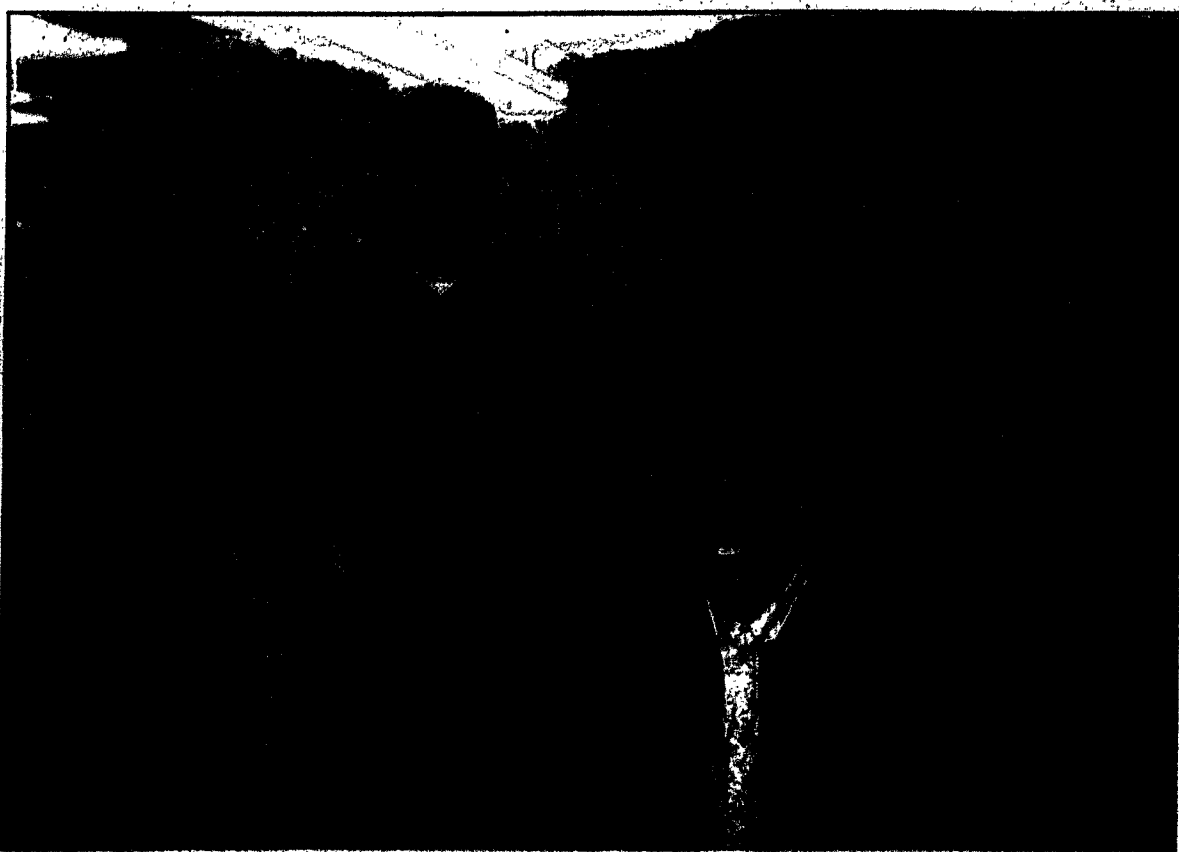

Here's a rather profound piece of information that for years I've kept harbored until that perfect moment arises. And you guessed it, the moment is now. And by the way Dad, this ones for you my friend. Only in America will you find an illiterate millionaire thug with an attitude pumped up on steroids and glorified in the eyes of the media and our children as a superstar because he spent the majority of his life on the streets nurturing a natural athletic ability. Did I just hear the phones ring? All right enough fun, I

RESTAURANT REVIEW

Presenting some of the Finest Restaurants on the Mississippi Gulf Coast

Crawfish over to Cajun Connection

When Jim and Christine Fortune purchased the Cajun Connection in the Kiln recently, they had a dream to create the perfect down-home restaurant.

They succeeded beyond their wildest expectations.

They started with the comfortable, casual atmosphere, enhanced it with fast, friendly service and topped it off with some of the best steaks and seafood in South Mississippi.

When you go to the Cajun

Connection, you'd better be hungry.

You can start your meal with one of their delicious appetizers, such as spicy gumbo or crab claws, hot wings, cheese sticks or onion rings.

And the Cajun Connection is famous for its all-you-can-eat crawfish, offered six days a week. On Saturday night, that expands to all-you-can-eat seafood. That includes the crawfish, plus boiled shrimp and crab for only $14.99.

For the beef lover in your group, try the Surf & Turf, or dig into one of the Cajun Connection's hand-cut mouth-watering ribeye steaks done to your satisfaction. You can choose from eight- or 12-ounce portions.

The Cajun Connection also features daily specials, and on Saturday, Chef Freddie offers up his own gourmet creations as the Weekend Special.

Finish your meal with a selection of some of the tastiest desserts on this side of heaven.

The Cajun Connection now serves both beer and wine in addition to soft drinks, and is open six days a week, closed on Sundays. The restaurant is located at 17130 Hwy. 603 in the Kiln.

As the guns of America's fighting forces sounded ever closer the dome of Nazi Germany and Imperial Japan, Franklin Delano Roosevelt died in Warm Springs, Georgia, where he had been resting for 10 days. Death resulted from a cerebral hemorrhage at 4:30 p.m. on April 12. Roosevelt was 63. He had been president for 12 years, one month and nine days. Less than four months have passed since he had taken his historic oath of office for the fourth term. Only a few weeks before he returned from the Yalta conference where in company with Marshal Stalin of Russia and Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain he had labored to build an enduring peace.
